THE BOARD WANTS PAY Planters Held for Care of Porto Rican.

SUPT. BOYD AT MEETING

Board of Health Lets Contracts for Supplies at the Asylum and Settlement.

Responsibility for the care of the Porto Ricans brought here at the instance of the Hawaiian Planters' Association was the question which occupied the attention of the Board of Health at yesterday's postponed meeting. The case in question was that of James R.
Cantario, a Porto Rican now in the Hospital for the Insane, and who had been taken from one of the steamers laden with laborers some six months ago. The man was committed to the asylum by Judge Wilcox and the Board of Health forwarded a bill for $94.29 for his care since that time to the Hawaiian Planters' Association. W. O. Smith, as secretary, appeared before the board, having been invited to come, upon a receipt of a letter in which the Planters' Association disclaimed responsibility for the care of the unfortunate Porto Rican.

Both Dr. Cooper and Dr. Pratt stated that the laborer had been taken from one of the Porto Rican ships and was hopelessly insane at the time. The man was placed in charge of the Board of Health representatives, according to the statement of Dr. Cooper, who was President at the time, at the request of Mr. Gilman, who stated that the Planters' Association would be responsible for his care.

"The facts of the coming of these Porto Ricans are different," said Mr. Smith, "from the immigration under the monarchy and republic, when contract laborers were brought to Honolulu from Japan and China. These Porto Ricans come here only with the assurance that they will be given work upon their arrival at a given rate of wages. There is no contract of any kind, and they are free to change their employment whenever it suits them. It is hardly just to hold the Planter's Association responsible for anyone who may become insane."

A great deal of care was taken in the selection of these Porto Rican physicians made a careful examination of them before they left Porto Rico, and out of 3,000 men, one becomes insane. It cost $300,000 to bring them here, an expense borne by the Planter's Association to aid the agricultural welfare of the country. They were brought to work where they pleased, and are not under the moral control of the planters, and are not under contract to work for any one person."

Dr. Pratt replied that at the time the man was found in an insane condition he could have reported the facts to the immigration inspector, and the man would have been deported on the steamer upon which he had come. However, Mr. Gilman had given assurances that the Association of which he was then secretary would care for the man, and upon that assurance the Board of Health acted. He did not think it right that the Territory should be compelled to pay for the support of the laborers brought here to work upon the plantations.

Dr. Cooper expressed the same view, and was finally decided to defer action upon the matter until Mr. Smith had had time to confer with Mr. Gilman. The Porto Rican is still in the asylum.

BOYD BEFORE THE BOARD.

James H. Boyd, Superintendent of Public Works, appeared before the board to confer upon several matters. He reported that he had information from Kona, Hawaii, that pigs were being raised in Hookena and Kilauea upon swill and refuse. He did not think that the industry was conducive to the health of the people of those two villages. The matter was referred to the government physician at Kona.

Superintendent Boyd also requested permission for the department to be allowed to dump garbage upon the Sheridan street property of the Board of Health; the request being granted. He stated also that the garbage service

A SHARPER COMING TO WORK HAWAIIAN SALOON-KEEPERS

He Will Sell a Recipe for Bogus Whisky to Them and to the Gold-Mining "Savages" at Hilo.

(Special to the Advertiser.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Hawaiian revenue officials and the local police force of Hawaii may expect some brand-new developments in the line of booze. A man is leaving here for Honolulu, to offer the saloon keepers, Portuguese grocers, pake shops and "savages" of the island a "recipe for making whisky." He will for a small consideration inform Camarinos, Cunha, "Larry" Dee, "Billy" Cunningham, or mine host, Lycurgus, just how to make a very fetching brand of red eye, out of water, alcohol and a few drops of a secret compound.

The man who is going to Hawaii bought the recipe from a sharper here, who calls himself E. Rockman or Rockwell. Rockwell with another man named J. W. Moore and a man named Constantine, put the following advertisement in the daily papers of San Francisco, a few days ago:

BEST opportunity ever offered: requiring from $100 to $1000 for purchase of profitable business located in Pacific Coast States, Philippines, China, Japan, Hawaiian Islands, Alaska; guaranteed expenses to point of location. Apply 20 O'Farrell st., room —, between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m.

The advertiser correspondent went to the room at 20 O'Farrell street, and found a prosperous looking countryman waiting in the passage for audiences with Rockwell. When his turn came the advertiser man had his hand shaken vigorously by a man who might pass for a double of Oscar Lewis. He asked as to the finances of the applicant, and when satisfied that the Advertiser man could pay a few hundred dollars to make a few thousand, he grew confidential and said that he had a marvelous recipe for making a very smooth and delicious whisky. With three pints of water and a pint of alcohol, and a few tablespoonfuls of his compound, one could make two quarts of whisky, worth $1 a quart.

He said that any smart man who would learn the secret of this compound could go to Hawaii and make a fortune.

"You see," said Rockwell, "the Hawaiian Islands are the same as the Sandwich Islands and the people there are great drinkers. They have to get all their whisky now from this country, and the duty is $5 a gallon. There are 300,000 savages, just the same as the wild Indians that used to tramp round the plains, and they will pay everything for whisky. The gold mines of Hilo (pronounced Hylo) employ about 11,000 of these savages, and if you would handle only their business you would make probably about $5000 or $6000 a month.

There have been there, and one Saturday night alone when these black men were paid, I took in over $24,000, by selling them the receipt for making this booze. You see, I had taught it to a couple of them, and they got such a powerful edge on, that their friends inquired about it. Now, you would think that those to whom I taught it first would tell the others about it, but they don't do that. You see, I make them swear on their josses and they are afraid that the joss will kill them if they break their word."

The advertiser man listened interest-edly to the words of Rockman or Rockwell, and departed. On their way down stairs he met a man with considerable hayseed in his clothes who asked if the newspaper man was "in on the whisky business."

He talked freely and said that he had paid $150 for the exclusive rights to the Hawaiian Islands and was going down on the next steamer. He said that all he took with him was the paper on which the recipe was, and that his scheme was to sell copies of it to the saloon keepers of the Islands, and afterward to tackle the savages at Hilo.
He said that he understood there were several hundred saloons scattered through the group, and that each one of them would probably put up $100 for the great secret, which would save them importing any more whisky, and paying the Hawaiian duty of $5 a gallon. He was half inclined to let the Advertiser man in on the proposition, but guarded the recipe carefully.

The Call has exposed the fraud, and it is probable that the internal revenue agents will get after the men, if they try to do any more business here.
Now it is up to the Hawaiian officials to look out for the man from Humboldt, who is possibly sailing for Honolulu today.

HOW HAWAIIAN DRINKS SPOILT A MATRIMONIAL VENTURE

(Special to the Advertiser.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—A society couple who spent a happy honey-moon of three months in Honolulu are now strangers to Cupid's fascinations.
Mrs. Philip A. Williams has asked the courts in Oakland to give her a divorce from her husband, who is a well-known man about town, and son of the late Henry D. Williams of Williams, Brown & Co.

Five years ago Miss Clare Tucker was one of the most beautiful and popular girls on the other side of San Francisco Bay. Her father was Dr. J.
C. Tucker, now dead, and one of her sisters in Mrs. George W. McNear, Jr.; other sisters are Mrs. R. H. McDonald and Mrs. Eddington Dedrick.

Miss Clare Tucker first saw her future husband, Philip Williams, when she was being educated at one of the modish schools in Alameda county. Williams was smitten with her at sight and obtained a speaking acquaintance through an introduction by letter. Williams went East shortly afterward, and during his stay there carried on a warm correspondence with Miss Tucker.
When he returned he began to press his suit in earnest and in person. The Tuckers had a home at Belvidere, and there Williams sought the love of Miss Tucker, during all the sweet summer months.

Her relatives did not take to his suit and Miss Tucker was sent to Europe, where she remained several years, acquiring a knowledge of languages and of music. It had been hoped that this separation from her suitor would cause Miss Tucker to forget him, but Cupid was of stronger mold, and when Miss Tucker returned to San Francisco Williams and she were speedily married.

Then it was that Honolulu had her in their midst. For three months the happy pair tarried in the Hawaiian capital, spending the time at Waikiki, and being entertained by the leading families of Honolulu.

and Miss Tucker was sent to Europe,
separation from her suitor would cause
was of stronger mold, and when Miss
iams and she were speedily married.

Representative A. F. Gilfillan is now on his way home, after a long delay at Philadelphia. This information came to several friends of the long absent legislator and business man.
The letters received were very brief, and conveyed the information under

When they came back to San Francisco they lived for a while here at a hotel, and then occupied a handsome home across the bay. Mrs. Williams says that from the very day they left Honolulu her husband began to treat her cruelly. She says that he seemed to have acquired bibulous habits in the Islands, and that she was compelled to endure great mental anguish by reason of his queer actions while in his cups.

It would seem that while in Honolulu Williams became an ardent worshipper at the shrine of Bacchus, and that the mild gin flizz, which in the perspiring air of Honolulu might be drunk in safety, became a very demon of strength when sipped in the cooler clime of California.

Mrs. Williams says that when her husband was under the influence of liquor he acted as if he were crazy, and that often she had to flee from him with her children, in order to save herself and them from physical harm. She says that she could not give any idea of the number of times Williams was paralyzed, but that his debauch was almost continual. Williams seemed to have braced up about a year ago, when he left for the Orient. It was said then that he and his wife had agreed to separate, but this statement is disproved by the complaint which she has filed now.

Williams returned to San Francisco on December 16, on the steamship Coptic. About the time he was packing his things to leave that vessel a lawyer was filing the suit for divorce. The complaint charges extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Williams is now living at 171 Moss avenue, Oakland. She refuses to talk about her affairs to the newspaper reporters, but her relatives say that they have been trying to induce her to get a divorce for a long time, and that she has refused to do so on account of her children. These children are Clarence, who is four years old, and Teresa, who is barely two years.

The family have great social promience and have been leaders in San Francisco and Oakland smart sets.

date of December 19, that Mr. Gilfillan's brother in San Francisco had received from his aunt, Mrs. J. Anderson, of Philadelphia, a wire saying the Hawaiian would leave Philadelphia for home during the Christmas week.

One letter contained the information that he had been taken ill while at the Quaker City and had been cared for at the home of relatives for several weeks. It is expected he will be home either in the Sonoma next Wednesday, January 1, 1902, or in the Peking, January 15.

Excursion to Hilo.

The Kinau will leave Honolulu for Hilo and way ports on December 30th, and return Saturday afternoon of January 4th. The fare for the round trip on this occasion will be only $18.00.

MORTIMER STEVENS IN SEATTLE

Mrs. E. P. Dole With Her Parents. Gear and Davis Painting Things Red.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Mrs. Agnes R. Grant is back again in San Francisco, after an absence of five weeks in Honolulu.

Mrs. Gertrude Bates, who went to Honolulu with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sa-doe Tobin, will remain in the Islands for some little time. She writes to friends here that she is enjoying herself immensely.

Robert P. Greer is in the city again, after a lengthy trip to Australia, the Orient and Hawaii.

Mrs. Edmund P. Dole, wife of the attorney general of Hawaii, is staying here with her parents, at their residence, 1133 Ellis street. She expects to be joined by her husband in a fortnight, and to accompany him to Washington. He is called "General" Dole quite commonly here, and by many is supposed to have a high military title.

It is reported here in newspaper circles that James Doolittle, who was on the writing staff of the Honolulu Republican seven months ago, died in Denver two months ago of consumption. Doolittle was a grandson of former United States Senator Doolittle.

A commercial traveler for a jewelry firm who knew Mortimer I. Stevens in Honolulu, says that he met him a few weeks ago in Seattle, where Stevens said he was employed on a newspaper.
Stevens will be remembered as the Advertiser reporter who was shot by Editor Edwin Gill, of the Republican.

On the morning of December 25th Miss Jennie Morse of this city, daughter of Milton H. Morse, manager of the Oriental department of the American Trading Company, and N. J. Sargent, a business man of Tien-tsin, China, will be married. The wedding will be a family affair, and take place at the residence of the bride's parents, at 335 Eleventh avenue. Mr. Sargent has spent the greater part of his life in China and Japan, but was born in this city. They will sail for China on the Donnerstag.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker Ray (nee Piper) are staying at the Hotel Van Noy, the most fashionable hostelry of Los Angeles. Mrs. Ray has a tressouse, the beauty of which would set her women friends wild with envy. She has the daintiest and costliest of lace and frills, all her lingerie having been made to order after her own designs.
She writes that she is enjoying her honeymoon to its limits.

Oscar Lewis, partner in the well known firm of Lewis & Turk, of Honolulu, is lecturing in the saloons of the waterfront here on the evils of the government in Hawaii as controlled by the "missionaries." Lewis says he is unalterably opposed to all that is represented by the Dole party, and that he and Judge Humphreys will never rest until they have overthrown that "gang," as Mr. Lewis calls it. Lewis has developed in Hawaii a wonderful capacity for gin and guff, and is called "Kanaka Lewis" by the waterfront luminaries.

Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson has gone to the City of Mexico for a prolonged stay. Mrs. Stevenson has perhaps the most artistic home here, and has not closed it during her absence.

H. T. Marsh, of Honolulu, who has been at the California Hotel for a day or two, left yesterday for the East.
Among those now at the California Hotel are: Mrs. George Beckley and her son and daughter, who have come from school to spend the holidays with their mother; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Macfarlane, and Walter, Alice and Guy Macfarlane; Mrs. C. O. Berger, and the Misses Minna and Hilda Berger; Mrs.
Thomas Krouse and daughter; Mr. J.
H. Castle and wife, Mrs. Foster, who is a friend of the Macfarlanes; Lieut. L.
P. H. Bahrenburg and wife are at the California. They will go East in a day or two. Lieutenant Bahrenburg is well known in Honolulu, where he was in the United States Marine Hospital service.

Judge George Gear and George Davis are still at the California Hotel, and apparently doing something more than having a high old time. They are together always, and neglecting none of the Christmas cheer.

The Occidental Hotel will give its usual Christmas banquet on December 25, to be followed by the annual Christmas ball. This is quite an event for the Hawaiians who spend their Christmas at the hotel. At present Mrs.
James Campbell and her daughters are staying at San Jose, and Prince David Kawananakoa is in close attendance on Miss Abbie. The price and the charmbells may all come to town for Christmas. Those at the Occidental Hotel now who expect to be there for Christmas are L. Schweitzer and wife, J. G. Rothwell and wife, the former being manager of Peacock & Co., in Honolulu; A. J. Campbell and wife; Mrs. Gusse Schmidt, Miss Gay, Mrs.
Tom Holloway and family will be here for Christmas, and of course, Charles R. Bishop, who makes his home at the Occidental, will be there for the holidays. B. F. Dillingham is also there now.
